VEGETINE
—WILL CURE—
SCROFULA,
Scrofulous Humor.

VEGETINE will eradicate from the system every taint of Scrofula and Scrofulous Humor. It has permanently cured thousands in Boston and vicinity who had been long and painful sufferers.

Cancer, Cancerous Humor.

The marvelous effect of VEGETINE in case of Cancer and Cancerous Humor challenges the most profound attention of the medical faculty, many of whom are prescribing VEGETINE to their patients.

Canker.

VEGETINE has never failed to cure the most indexible case of Canker.

Mercurial Diseases.

The VEGETINE meets with wonderful success in the cure of this class of diseases.

Pain in the Bones.

In this complaint the VEGETINE is the great remedy, as it removes from the system the producing cause.

Salt Rheum.

Tetter, Salt Rheum, Scald Head, &c., will certainly yield to the great alterative effects of VEGETINE.

Erysipelas.

VEGETINE has never failed to cure the most inveterate case of Erysipelas.

Pimples and Humors of the Face.

Reason should teach us that a blotchy, rough or pimpled skin depends entirely upon an internal cause and no outward application can ever cure the defect. VEGETINE is the great blood purifier.

Tumors, Ulcers or old Sores

Are caused by an impure state of the blood. Cleanse the blood thoroughly with VEGETINE, and these complaints will disappear.

Catarrh.

For this complaint the only substantial benefit can be obtained through the blood. VEGETINE is the great blood purifier.

Constipation.

VEGETINE does not act as a cathartic to debilitate the bowels, but cleanses all the organs, enabling each to perform the functions devolving upon them.

Piles.

VEGETINE has restored thousands to health who have been long and painful sufferers.

Dyspepsia.

If VEGETINE is taken regularly, according to directions, a certain and speedy cure will follow its use.

Faintness at the Stomach.

VEGETINE is not a stimulating bitters which creates a factitious appetite, but a gentle tonic, which assists nature to restore the stomach to a healthy action.

Female Weakness.

VEGETINE acts directly upon the causes of these complaints. It invigorates and strengthens the whole system, acts upon the secretive organs and allays inflammation.

General Debility.

In this complaint the good effects of the VEGETINE are realized immediately after commencing to take it; as debility denotes deficiency of the blood, and VEGETINE acts directly upon the blood.

VEGETINE IS SOLD BY ALL DRUGGISTS.

Newport Daily News.

FRIDAY, DECEMBER 17, 1875.

GRANDPA'S SOLILOQUY.

It wasn't so when I was young,
We used plain language then;
We didn't speak of "them galoots,"
When meaning boys or men.

When speaking of the nice hand write
Of Joe, or Tom, or Bill,
We called it plain—We didn't say,
"He swings a nasty quill."

An' when we seed a gal we liked
Who never failed to please,
We called her pretty, neat and good,
But not "about the cheese."

Well, when we met a good old friend
We hadn't lately seen,
We greeted him—but didn't say,
"Hello, you old sardine!"

The boys sometimes got mad and fit;
We spoke of kicks and blows;
But now they "whack him to the moon,"
And "goals him on the nose."

Once when a youth was turned away
From her he loved most dear,
He walked off on his feet—but now
He "crawls off on his ear."

We used to dance when I was young,
And used to call it so;
But now they don't—they only "cling
The light fantastic toe."

Of death we spoke in language plain,
That no one will pervert;
But in these days one doesn't die—
He passes in his "checks."

We praised the man of common sense;
His judgment's good, we said;
But now they say, "Well, that old plum
Has got a level head."

It's rather sad the children now
Are learning all such talk,
They've learned to "chin" instead of chat,
And "waltz" instead of walk.

To little Harry yesterday—
My grandchild, aged two—
I said, "You love grandpa?" said he,
"You bet your boots I do."

The children bowed to strangers once;
It is no longer so—
The little girls, as well as boys,
Now greet you with "Hello!"

Oh, give me back the good old days,
When both the old and young
Conversed in plain, old-fashioned words,
And slang was never "slung."

GENIUS AND LABOR.

THE GREAT PAINS TAKEN BY MEN OF "GENIUS."—ADDISON'S FUSSINESS.—"COME INTO THE GARDEN MAUD" AND "LOCKSLEY HALL."—BUFFON, LA ROCHEFOUCAULD, AND GIBBON.

Genius has been defined many times as industry, or a capacity for hard and protracted labor. The correctness of this definition is sustained by the example of a large number of eminent authors whom the world has by common consent regarded as men of genius. At the head of the list stands Plato, whose flowing lines, that glide as from a swift-running pen, were really the product of slow and tedious elaboration. There is an anecdote that the opening sentence of "The Republic" was found on the author's tablets written in thirteen different versions. When finally summoned by Death to cease from his labors, the philosopher was sitting at his desk, as Dionysius says, combing and curling, and weaving and unweaving his writings, after a variety of fashions." Plato was 81 years of age when called "to join the great majority beyond."

Addison, whose graceful unaffected style has excited the envy and admiration of cultivated readers, composed with painful deliberation. The press was frequently stopped after nearly a whole edition of The Spectator had been struck off, in order that he might change a preposition in one of his sentences. While he held the position of under-secretary, it fell to him to communicate to Prince George of Hanover intelligence of the death of Queen Anne and the vacancy of the throne. The fastidious author was so puzzled to make a choice of expressions in which to convey the news that finally the task of writing the prince was given to a clerk, who boasted of having done what Addison found impossible.

Lamb expended immense labor upon his humorous essays,—the delicate, dainty fancies being fashioned with the most critical nicety. It is said that a playful letter to a friend often cost him the work of a week. It is related of Tennyson that he wrote the song, "Come into the Garden Maud" fifty times over before it suited him; and that he spent eight hours a day, for nearly six weeks altogether, altering and polishing "Locksley Hall." The first draft of the poem was produced in two days; but the exquisite perfection of the finished work was the result of this enormous drudgery. Moore accomplished but seventy lines of "Lalla Rookh" in a week, when his mood for writing was most felicitous. Kinglake wrote "Eothen" five or six times over before it was given into the hands of the publisher. Buffon was fifty years completing his "Studies of Nature," and copied the entire work eighteen times ere it was finally dispatched to the printer. "He composed in a singular manner, writing on large sized paper, in which, as in a ledger, five distinct columns were ruled. In the first column he wrote down the first thoughts; in the second he corrected, enlarged, and printed it; and so on until he had reached the fifth column, within which he finally wrote the result of his labor. But, even after this, he would recompose a sentence twenty times; and once devoted fourteen hours to finding the proper word with which to round off a sentence."

La Rochefocaul spent fifteen years in preparing his little book of "Maxims," altering some of them nearly thirty times. John Foster often pondered hours over the construction of a single sentence: and Rogers worked a fortnight over a note to his "Jinly," that embraced a very few lines. When Balzac had completed the plan of one of his novels, and, by laborious research, gained all the materials he wished to put into it, it was his custom to shut himself up in the privacy of his darkened rooms, and by artificial light work day and night at the business of composition. His faithful servants attended upon him, supplying his wants, and saving him all thought with regard to his physical needs. When at last Balzac emerged from his seclusion, with his romance completed, his aspect was that of a dead man. But, the toil over, his manuscript was not then ended. It was altered and amended while in the printer's hands, until printer and publisher were reduced to despair.

Gibbon says of the manner in which he labored over the "Decline and Fall of the Roman Empire"; "Many experiments were made before I could hit the middle tone between a dull tame and a rhetorical declamation: three times did I compose the first chapter, and twice the second and third, before I was tolerably satisfied with their effect." When Bulwer began his career as a novelist, it is said that seventeen lines a day was all he could at first accomplish. By practice he gradually acquired facility, until he was at last able to write several pages daily. Albany Foublanque, the editor of the Examiner, of whom Leigh Hunt once remarked that he was the successor "of the Swifts and Addisons themselves,—profuse of wit even beyond them, and superior in political knowledge," wrote very slowly. The utmost he was ever able to produce was two or three editorials a week, and these were many times revised.

It was not a singular occurrence for him to rewrite an editorial ten times.

Saint Beuve, the brilliant French critic, regularly gave about four toilsome days to each of his weekly articles. A portion of his time was spent in the seclusion of his apartments, to which, during that interval, no person save his servant was admitted upon any pretext.

NEWSPAPERS AND THEIR WORK.

If the business of a newspaper were merely to register things actually accomplished, and to avoid furnishing any information to the public which cannot be obtained from a blue-book or a last year's almanac; some of our contemporaries would be models for the study of all the journalists in the world. Editors whose ideas of the functions of a newspaper are limited to the above-described rather narrow field, naturally find fault with a paper like the Herald, which aims to tell the people not only what has actually occurred, but what influences and tendencies are at work to produce future events; and to form public opinion by keeping it informed concerning the matters within its control. A recent instance of the good that can be done in this way, is the power that has been brought to bear to prevent the removal of that faithful public officer, Postmaster-General Jewell. In that case we knew that certain powerful influences, albeit of most dishonest and discreditable origin, were at work to force Mr. Jewell out of the Cabinet. We promptly published all the facts that could be got, showing just what the movement against Mr. Jewell was. The facts were widely circulated, and the publication at once created a strong reaction in favor of Mr. Jewell, which seems to have left him as firmly seated in the Cabinet as when he first entered it. We suppose the newspapers which talk about "sensational journalism" would have waited until Mullett, Burt and company had completely undermined the Postmaster-General, and then commenced in their slow fashion on the unfortunate political occurrence. Again, in the matter of the naval preparations, which are now underway, and which the government has attempted to keep secret, when we ascertained that the preparations were on so huge a scale as to be justified only by apprehensions of hostilities with some foreign power, we published facts, and let our readers know what was going on. Our critics waited incredulously until the telegrams from all the navy yards justified the prominence which we gave to the news in the first instance, and then published what was already known in relation to the subject. The absence of any apparent reason for these preparations, and the suspicion that the Navy Department was once more wasting a great deal of money needlessly, justified the calling of public attention to these enormous preparations, which are still unexplained, at the earliest possible moment. That the immediate object of these preparations may not be complications with England, does not detract from the importance of the news we have published on that question also. There is no recent subject of diplomacy concerning which the public is more completely in the dark than the treaty of Washington and the results which are to come from it. It is manifestly for the advantage of our government to have no agitation of the subject of our Canadian relations at present. It would indeed be the greatest folly for the United States to appear to desire to escape from any of its obligations under that treaty, at this time. But the question is one which is going to make us no little trouble before it is disposed of, and the facts had better be known.—[Boston Herald.

THE STORY OF THE OLD OAKEN BUCKET.—The popular song of "The Old Oaken Bucket" is said to have its origin under the following circumstances, which give it additional interest: Some years ago, when Woodworth, the printer, and several others, "Old New Yorkers," were brother typos in a printing office which was situated at the corner of Chestnut and Chambers streets, there were few places in the city of New York where one could enjoy the luxury of a really "good drink." Among the few places most worthy of patronage was an establishment kept by Mallory in Franklin street, on about the same spot where St. John's Hall recently stood. Woodworth, in company with several particular friends, had dropped in at this place one afternoon for the purpose of taking some "brandy and water," which Mallory was famous for keeping. The liquor was super-excellent, and Woodworth seemed inspired by it, for after taking a draught he laid his glass upon the table and smacking his lips, declared that Mallory's eau de vie was superior to any he had ever tasted. "No," said Mallory, "you are quite mistaken: there was one thing which in both our estimations far surpasses this in the way of drinking." "What was that?" asked Woodworth dubiously. "The draught of pure fresh spring water we used to drink from the old oaken bucket that hung in the well after our return from the labor of the field on a sultry day in Summer." The teardrops glistened for a moment in Woodworth's eyes. "True! true!" he replied, and soon quitted the place. He returned to the office, grasped the pen, and in half an hour "The Old Oaken Bucket," one of the most delightful compositions in our language, was ready in manuscript to be embalmed in the memory of succeeding generations.

PUBLIC LAND SALES.—Commissioner Burdett, of the general land office, in his annual report says: The disposal of public lands under the various heads, for the last fiscal year, amount to 7,071,271.29 acres, showing a decrease, as compared with the area disposed of in 1874, of 2,400,601.61 acres. The falling off, as compared with the disposals of the year immediately preceding, in entries made for actual settlement, as compared with the appropriations made for actual settlement as evidenced by the appropriations of the public lands under the Homestead and Timber Culture laws, is found to be attributed in a large degree to devastation by the grasshoppers, accompanied, in some places, by a season of unusual drouth in the localities most inviting to homestead and timber culture settlement, to which is to be added the falling off of emigration and the general business depression, which has reached the agricultural as well as the other industrial classes of the country.

HOW TO GAIN SUCCESS.—If our boys are to conquer anything in life, let it be money, fame, or religious faith, the surest preparation is to give them obstinacy of purpose—staying power. The half-hearted fellow, the man who plays critic all his days, the man who sits scowling in the corner, showing the old sores of long-ago disappointment, carping at luckier men, these will always be the under dogs in the fight and make but a scanty meal in life. As for your humbug, your sham, no matter how well he plays his part of hero or saint, or how brilliant his apparent success, he is sure to be found out; the world spews him out at last. After all, modern philosophy or modern theories of human nature or sociology can yield no better rule of life than that in which the Hebrew king summed up his experience of knowledge, woman, wine, wealth, and religion: "Whatever thy hand findeth to do, do with thy might."—[New York Tribune.

John W. Johnston was yesterday re-elected to the United States Senate from Virginia.

The death sentence of the Jefferson Borden mutineers has been commuted to imprisonment for life by the President.

An appalling mining calamity occurred at Framiens, Belgium, yesterday, one hundred and ten miners being killed and eleven injured, by an explosion of fire-damp.

Supervisor Tutton has written a letter to President Grant assuming the responsibility of urging the executive to revoke Secretary Bristow's order of January 27, 1875, for a general transfer of revenue supervisors. This is done in refutation of Special Counsel Henderson's accusation against General Babcock.

The United States Senate yesterday discussed, at much length, Senator Morton's resolution for a special committee to investigate the alleged Mississippi election frauds, Messrs. Morton, Bayard, Thurman and others participating in the debate. Senator Spencer of Alabama asked that the committee on elections investigate the matter of his election, and his request was granted. The House holiday adjournment resolution was adopted with an amendment extending the recess until the 5th of January instead of the 4th.

CHRISTMAS GOODS.

D. L. CUMMINGS

has a more than usually good assortment of fruit knives and napkin rings, and a variety of articles in solid silver and handsome designs. He has sets of a knife, fork and spoon in a pretty case that are admirably calculated for Christmas. Mr. Cummings has also something of a novelty in jewelry in the shape of French brilliants set on black onyx. They are very handsome.

E. C. BLAIN

is the agent for the Borel & Courvoisier watches, which make very agreeable Christmas presents. Mr. Blain makes it a point to keep a large stock of silver ware and jewelry on hand. He has a beautiful set of stone cameos that would delight the most fastidious, and a fine set of mosaic jewelry brought from Italy. He has fine chains, sleeve buttons, etc., and all the little ornamental affairs that one expects to find at a jeweler's.

E. P. ALLAN.

The old china that Charles Lamb and many people of greater or less importance than he have so ardently admired is a scarce article, but an ingenious Frenchman is successfully copying the quaint cream pitchers and sugar bowls of our great grandmothers. Mr. Allan has quite a variety of these modern antiques. Admirers of the ceramic art should examine them. Mr. Allan has also all the modern varieties of china, majolica, Bohemian glass, etc. In vases he has some beautiful new designs. At Mr. Allan's one is sure of seeing not only beautiful but new things, and many of his goods go to New York. The first china tablets for table orders, a very pretty novelty, that appeared in New York were sent to August Belmont from Mr. Allan's. At this store are some exquisite little tea sets, and single pieces that are capable of giving a great deal of pleasure a week from tomorrow.

JAMES H. TAYLOR

has a quantity of very pretty boxes containing fancy soaps and perfumery. He has German cologne a bottle of which in a red pasteboard case would make a very nice present. He always keeps a fine lot of thermometers on hand and just now his stock is better than usual. Nothing is more suggestive of the warmth of one's friendship than the present of a pretty thermometer whose mercury can't go below 32°, and is capable of rising to the boiling point.

C. BANNING

has the new Remington sewing machine which he warrants to give perfect satisfaction in all departments of its work. The cabinet work of these machines is noticeable. He has a large stock which he offers on the installment plan or at discount for cash. He has also an assortment of tuckers, hemmers, etc. Nothing is better for a Christmas present than a good sewing machine.

CASWELL, HAZARD AND CO.,

have a fine lot of Russia leather goods, consisting of handkerchief and glove boxes, odor cases, card cases, bill books, letter books, ladies' and gentlemen's pocket books, cigar cases, etc. They have also a fine assortment of toilet sets, ink-stands in bronze, gilt, etc., paper weights, thermometers mounted on bronze, ivory, satin wood, walnut, porcelain, and tin, also vases, bouquet holders, all kinds of perfumery, fancy soaps, and many other things both pretty and useful. These things have just been selected and include all the novelties.

GOULD & SON

have a large variety of gentlemen's furnishing goods. They make a specialty of neckties and silk handkerchiefs, both of which they are selling low. The silk handkerchiefs are exceedingly popular both with ladies and gentlemen and Gould & Son have a very large assortment of the best kinds. A half dozen of them, or even less, would be a not unacceptable present for Christmas.

PERSONALS.

.....The following call signed by E. D. Morgan, chairman, and William E. Chandler, secretary, appeared in the New York Times yesterday: "The Republican national committee will meet on Thursday, January 12, at 10 A. M., at the Arlington Hotel, Washington, for the purpose of fixing the time and place for holding the next Republican National Convention for the nomination of President and Vice President."

.....General Henderson thinks it a little rough to be told by the Attorney General that "the department will not continue to pay special counsel for this kind of service," when, as a matter of fact, he had never received a cent; had never rendered any bill, and the matter of compensation had been under consideration at no time. Mr. Henderson adds that the appointment of special counsel came to him entirely unsolicited.

.....The World very properly says that "the personal good fame of President Grant is a thing of value to the whole country, without distinction of party, and no American Democrat worthy to be heard and heeded in the public counsels can doubt for a moment that it is a public duty not only to avoid making hasty suspicions of the President's motives in connection with the investigation now going on at St. Louis into a great conspiracy for defrauding the revenue, but even to resist as long as possible the force of the most suspicious circumstances when they point or seem to point to conclusions which would involve us all for the time in an ineffable public disgrace.

....."It is only just to say," remarks the Springfield Republican, "that General Grant has hitherto behaved unexpectedly well in the matter of these whiskey-ring prosecutions. But now that it is his own nose that is on the Bristow-Jewell reform grindstone, now that the 'scandal-hounds'—as Joyce called them—have followed the trail into the White House itself, and the names of three or four of his nearest kin are publicly connected with the frauds, he is not unnaturally growing tired of it. His temper begins to show signs of wear and tear. Probably he is in much the same frame of mind as the colored convert whose pastor let him slip out of his hands at the immersion: 'Some gemman's nigger'll be killed yet by dis d—n foolishness.'".

WHAT A WASTE!

WHY THE TIMES ARE HARD AND THE "LABORING CLASSES" SUFFER POVERTY. A NATION'S WHISKEY BILL.

During the year 1870, in our own state of New York, there were expended by consumers for liquor more than one hundred and six millions of dollars, a sum which amounted to nearly two thirds of all the wages paid to laborers in agriculture and manufactures, and to nearly twice as much as the receipts of all the railroads in the state, the sum of the latter being between sixty eight and sixty nine millions. The money of our people goes across the bar all the time faster than it is crowded into the wickets of all the railroad stations of the state, and where does it go? What is the return for it? Diseased stomachs, aching heads, discouraged and slatternly homes, idleness, gout, crime, degradation, death. These, in various measures, are exactly what we get for it. We gain of that which is good, nothing—no uplift in morality, no increase of industry, no accession to health, no growth of prosperity. Our state is full of tramps, and every one is a drunkard. There is demoralization everywhere, in consequence of this wasteful stream of fiery fluid that constantly flows down the open gullet of the state.

But our state is not alone. The liquor bill of Pennsylvania during 1870 was more than sixty five millions of dollars, a sum equal to one third of the entire agricultural product of the state. Illinois paid more than forty two millions, and Ohio more than fifty eight millions. Massachusetts paid more than twenty five millions, a sum equal to five sixths of her agricultural products, while the liquor bill of Maine was only about four millions and a quarter. Mr. Hargreaves takes the figures of Massachusetts and Maine to show how a prohibitory law does, after all, reduce the drinking: but it is not our purpose to argue the question.

What we desire to show is, that, with an annual expenditure of $600,000,000 for liquors in the United States—and all the figures we give are based upon official statistics—it is not to be wondered at that the times are hard and people poor. Not only this vast sum is wasted; not only the capital invested is diverted from good uses, and all the industry involved in production taken from beneficial pursuits, but health, morality, respectability, industry and life are destroyed. Sixty thousand Americans annually lie down in a drunkard's grave. It were better to bring into the field and shoot down sixty thousand of our young men every year, than to have them go through all the processes of disease, degradation, crime, and despair through which they inevitably pass.

With six hundred millions of dollars saved to the country annually, how long would it take to make these United States rich not only, but able to meet, without disturbance and distress, the revulsions in business to which all nations are liable? Here is a question for the statesman and the politician. Twenty five years of absolute abstinence from the consumption of useless, and worse than useless, liquors, would save to the country fifteen billions of dollars, and make us the richest nation on the face of the globe. Not only this sum—beyond the imagination to comprehend—would be saved, but all the abominable consequences of misery, disease, disgrace, crime, and death, that would flow from the consumption of such an enormous amount of poisonous fluids, would be saved. And yet temperance men are looked upon as disturbers and fanatics! And we are adjured not to bring temperance into politics! And this great transcendent question of economy gets the go by, while we hug our little issues for the sake of party and of office! Do we not deserve adversity?—[Dr. J. G. Holland; Scribner for December.

A PROPER REBUKE OF PARTY SPIRIT.—In his able argument upon the trial of Wm. O. Avery, ex-clerk of the United States treasury department, for conspiring in the St. Louis whiskey ring to cheat the government ex-Senator Henderson of Missouri, who was of counsel for the government, said: "Gentlemen, it is the cry of 'party, party, party,' that is one of the great dangers of the country. He who has the nerve to stand up and resist party deserves more than any Roman soldier who ever stood in the front of battle. It is party which has dragged the country down to the mire of corruption. Under the sacred name of party every fraud and every villany conceived by the wicked heart of man has been perpetrated in this country. Sir, the day is fast arriving when that man who has the force of character to resist the imperious demand of party and serve his country instead of the party will be honored beyond anything that man can conceive of today."

Mrs. Foss has a very fine voice and is an excellent actress. Her "Curfew Must not Ring Tonight" and "The Death of Little Joe," were particularly good, and she made an excellent countess in the selection from The Dodge Club. The announcements of "Gone With a Handsomer Man" and "The Charge of The Light Brigade" were met with applause, and throughout the whole evening the audience manifested more interest than at any previous entertainment this season.

AN ANCIENT DOLL.

Among the relics contributed by Newport to the centennial fair which the ladies of Providence are this week carrying on is a doll believed to be the oldest in the country. It is of wax, about ten inches high, and has grown yellow with age till it looks frightfully like a corpse. It boasts the following history. It was imported from Paris as a model of the fashions of the day and was bought in Philadelphia by the Hon. Benjamin Bourne of Bristol who was a member of Congress from 1790 to 1796. The doll was given to his niece, Miss Lillie E. Turner, daughter of Dr. Peter Turner, a surgeon in the Revolutionary army. Miss Lillie was born in 1792. The doll's eyes still move, and it still wears the finery in which it crossed the ocean to show the ambitious dames of the young republic how their Parisian sisters dressed.

Another relic which has been sent from here to Providence is a map of the United States, when there were only fourteen of them, worked on silk by a Newport school girl. A third relic is a copy of the Boston Gazette dated March 12, 1770 and containing an account of the "Boston Massacre" and the burial of the victims.

JUSTICE COURT.

FRIDAY DEC. 17.

A complaint against John Adams for larceny of stamps of the United States currency of different values, amounting in all to the sum of eight dollars, from George Bramham on the ninth instant was the first one tried this morning.

The respondent Adams is a hack driver, and has resided in Newport for some twenty years. On the day named he seems to have been thirsty and first visited Mr. Bramham's saloon No. 256 Thames street, and from that place went to John Burkinshaw's and from Burkinshaw's returned to Bramham's. While at the latter place during this second visit, he was seen by the proprietor and two other persons present, (who swore to these facts for the prosecution), to go behind the counter, on which account Bramham put him out of the store and on going to examine his till found that what currency there had been there, was departed. Upon ascertaining this, he sent out for Officer Garnett and had Adams arrested, who on being taken to the station house and examined, was found to have in his pockets, four fifty cent stamps, and other currency to the amount of eight dollars, some of which was identified by Bramham's clerk.

The respondent in rebuttal of the accusation against him, attempted to account for the stamps found on him, by the fact of his having a ten dollar bill changed at Burkinshaw's but in a searching cross examination, he failed fully to account for the disposition of it, and was otherwise shaken. The case was submitted without argument and the respondent was adjudged to be guilty, and the amount being within the jurisdiction of the court, he was sentenced to three months in the county jail in Providence county, and to pay all costs of prosecution. From this sentence he appealed to the May term of the court of common pleas, and recognized with William Adams as surety in the sum of one hundred dollars to prosecute his appeal. Mr. Honey appeared for the defence.

There is a large Newfoundland dog on Bear Island, belonging to the keeper of the lighthouse, which always barks from the time he first hears the paddle-wheel of the steamer Lewiston until the engineer salutes him with the whistle. Capt. Deering says he is invaluable, especially in foggy weather, when the light cannot be seen. The dog barks, and listens for the salute, and when the three whistles are given walks off with an air of intense satisfaction.

The bill appropriates $10,000 for the necessary expenses, and requires the commission to report the result of their investigation to the President, to be by him transmitted to Congress.

The Westminster of New York.

Because so many distinguished people have stopped at the Westminster Hotel, an impression largely prevails that it must be very expensive to live there. Such, however, is not the case. While the Westminster enjoys the reputation of being one of the most select, and one of the best appointed and most comfortable hotels in the world, the experience of those who have been its guests is that the prices are no higher than at other large first-class hotels. Indeed, the many advantages it affords, its rich appointments, quiet and convenient location, and its superior internal arrangements and discipline, render it not only the best, but likewise the cheapest.

A Widely Applicable Remedy.

Few remedies are applicable to such a wide range of disorder as Hostetter's Stomach Bitters, and this not because it has special properties adapted to the cure of each—such a pretence would be manifestly absurd,—but on account of its wonderfully improving effect upon the general tone of the system, and its alterative action upon the organs of nutrition, secretion and discharge. Besides its well known properties as a remedy for intermittent and remittent fevers, dyspepsia, constipation, torpidity of the liver, general debility, urinary and uterine difficulties, it invariably proves to be highly serviceable in overcoming anemia, hypochondria, rheumatism, insomnia, and many other disorders and disabilities originating in poverty or impurity of the blood, nervous weakness or over-excitement, or any imperfect performance of the physical functions.

SCHENCK'S MANDRAKE PILLS

Will be found to possess those qualities necessary to the total eradication of all bilious attacks, prompt to start the secretions of the liver, and give a healthy tone to the entire system. Indeed, it is no ordinary discovery in medical science to have invented a remedy for these stubborn complaints, which develop all the results produced by a heretofore free use of calomel, a mineral justly dreaded by mankind, and acknowledged to be destructive in the extreme to the human system. That the properties of certain vegetables comprise all the virtues of calomel without its injurious tendencies, is now an admitted fact, rendered indisputable by scientific researches; and those who use the Mandrake Pills will be fully satisfied that the best medicines are those provided by nature in the common herbs and roots of the fields.

These pills open the bowels and correct all bilious derangements without salivation or any of the injurious effect of calomel or other poisons. The secretion of bile is promoted by these pills, as will be seen by the altered color of the stools, and disappearing of the sallow complexion and cleansing of the tongue. Ample directions for use accompany each box of pills.

Prepared only by J. H. Schenck & Son, at their principal office, corner Sixth and Arch Streets, Philadelphia, and for sale by all druggists and dealers. Price 25 cents per box.

GENERAL NEWS

MISCELLANEOUS.

THE TERRIBLE MOSEL SLAUGHTER.

Confession of the Wretch who Devised the Infernal Machine—Second and Successful Attempt at Suicide.

BREMEN, Dec. 16.

Thomas, the passenger on the Mosel and owner of the cask of dynamite which caused the terrible disaster at Bremerhaven, has confessed his guilt, saying that he has accomplices at New York. It is hoped he will recover so that full particulars of his crime may be obtained.

The Weser Zeitung says authoritatively, that it is now proved that the author of the catastrophe was a passenger named Thomas, who acknowledged himself not only the possesser of the barrel which exploded, but that he intended bringing it on board the Mosel for the purpose of sinking that vessel. The motive for this diabolical scheme appears to have been to procure exaggerated and fictitious insurance, and to share afterwards with others. Thomas is quite conscious and answers all questions, but the bullets have not yet been extracted from his head.

From what is known the barrel prepared for this shameful work was made strongly by a Bremen cooper, and partitioned, one part containing the dynamite and the other the apparatus for exploding it. The plan probably was that the apparatus should be ignited by clock work, after the steamer had landed at Southampton, whither he took passage and where probably the goods would be shipped. He intended to place his hellish machine on the Deutschland, but it was not ready in time. The Weser Zeitung adds in sober words: "We communicate this with the certainty that the number of victims killed and wounded amount to 170."

The Criminal formerly a Blockade Runner.

DRESDEN, Dec. 15.

William K. Thomas, since his attempt of suicide, has made a confession at Bremen. He was born in New York, married a New Orleans lady, and has four children, the youngest, a baby. He lived in Virginia during the war and engaged in the business of a blockade runner whereby he grew rich. Since 1866 he has resided here and at Leipsic, and lost at Strethlen, near Dresden. He appears to have lost his money and become embarrassed. He was twice in America during the past Summer. The last time he went without the knowledge of his family and when he returned he wrote his banker here that he had made arrangements enabling him to pay his debts in December. He was highly esteemed by the people about here. His house has been searched but nothing found connected with the disaster.

Another Attempt at Suicide.

BREMEN, Dec. 16.

Thomas has attempted suicide again by tearing off the dressing from his wounds.

Death of Thomasson.—His Real Name and Former History.

BREMEN, Dec. 16.

Thomasson died today from the effects of injuries inflicted by himself. He stated his true name was William King Thompson, and he was a native of Brooklyn, N. Y. His age is believed to be about 35 years. He confessed he was once captain of the vessel Old Dominion, and changed his name to avoid being prosecuted for running the blockade during the civil war in America; that he bought the explosive material in the United States and had it forwarded to his address, and that the clock work attachment was manufactured in Germany and was set to explode the charge in eight days.

The Maker of the Infernal Machine.

MAGDENBURG, Dec. 16.

It is stated here that Thompson, alias Thomassen, had his clockwork made by a mechanician named Fuchs, residing at Bernburg, twenty-three miles from this city. The apparatus was constructed to run noiseless for ten days, when it caused a lever to act and strike with a force of thirty pounds. Twenty similar machines had been ordered. The negotiations between Thomas and Fuchs have been carried on since 1873, when Fuchs visited Thompson in Liepsic. He was told by the latter that the machines were required for a manufactory in the United States. Thompson has not revealed the names of his accomplices.

KENTUCKY.

Five Persons Poisoned by a Copper Kettle.

LOUISVILLE, Ky., Dec. 15.

A family of five persons, Shaffer by name, were poisoned tonight by eating soup. An examination revealed that the soup had been made the day previous in a copper kettle: that the portion not eaten remained in the pot till today, when it was partaken of. All who ate the soup subsequently suffered severely from the poison communicated by the copper from the kettle. The physicians attending the family are of the opinion that the sick ones are in a dangerous condition.

OHIO.

Reduction of the Pay of Firemen.

CINCINNATI, Dec. 16.

At a meeting of the board of fire commissioners, today, the salaries of all the members of the force were reduced, making an aggregate reduction of $22,000 per annum.

NEW HAMPSHIRE.

Reduction in the Kittery Navy Yard.

PORTSMOUTH, N. H., Dec. 16.

The discharge of 200 men took place in the construction department at the navy yard, last evening, leaving about forty in that division, most of whom are employed on the Marion. A reduction took place in the pay of foremen, and the orders are to discharge all foremen and other employes as fast as their services can be disposed of.

MAXWELL EXPLAINS.

The Utah United States Marshal Wants Money for Court Expenses.

SALT LAKE, Dec. 16.

United States Marshal Maxwell states that after having carried the burdens of the territorial prosecutions for a year and a half upon $13,200 and $300 from the territory, it is no wonder that the multitude of jurors, witnesses and guards should be clamoring for their just dues. Unless he receives aid in meeting the expenses of the courts, he proposes to suspend operations January 1st.

ACCIDENT AT ELIZABETH, N. J.

A Locomotive and Ten Cars Fall over the Newark Bay Bridge.—No One Injured.

ELIZABETH, N. J., Dec. 16.

The locomotive of a coal train ran off the track on the bridge over Newark Bay, west of the draw, and lodged in the trestle work. Ten cars were piled on top of the locomotive, and five thrown into the bay. No one was hurt.

EXPLOSION IN A BELGIAN MINE.

110 Miners Reported Killed.

BRUSSELS, Dec. 16.

A terrible explosion occurred today, in a coal mine at Frameries, near Mons. A full force of men were at work, and the loss of life is appalling. It is reported that one hundred and ten miners were killed; eleven were taken out injured. The accident was caused by a fire-damp.

For Cleaning Gold, Silver and Ware
This Polish has no equal.

Everybody lacking the Silver ware to clean, asks Stafford's Polish to clean their lamp chimneys. For this purpose alone it is desirable that everybody should keep it constantly in their possession.

The Ladies all say they have not half the trouble to clean off the smoke and grease as by the common method of washing them; and when lit up in the evening the lamp never refuses to shed its superb rays all around as there is nothing whatever to prevent it, the glass is so clean and free from smoke, &c.

Every husband admires his wife's cleanliness when he returns home in the evening after a hard day's toil and finds everything looking so bright and cheerful; but the wife keeps her secret and will not tell him that she has used Stafford's Polish to clean the lamp chimney, which is the cause of so much surprise and admiration.

FIRE ALARM REGULATIONS.

To send out an alarm.

Any person who discovers a fire is requested to immediately give the alarm by crying fire, and, going to the box nearest the fire, to send out a general alarm by procuring the key, unlocking the box, and firmly putting the hook down, once only, then closing the door, being careful to see that it is locked, and returning the key.

The person sending out an alarm from a box is requested to remain near said box until the first engine arrives, to direct the firemen to the exact locality of the fire.

Cautions.

Never pull a box if the small gong inside is striking r the machinery of the box is heard running.

Do not pull a box for a fire seen at a distance, or unless you are aware of the locality of a fire.

Key holders are requested not to allow their keys to be taken except by responsible parties.

Bell Ringers.

Bell ringers are engaged to ring the following church bells in connection with the telegraph alarm:—

The First and North Baptist, United Congregational and Emmanuel with instructions to ring their respective bells for five minutes immediately after the telegraphic alarm has completed its four rounds and then to repeat eight times the number of the box from which the alarm is sent.

Recall.

Nine blows upon the telegraphic alarm bells will indicate that the fire is out and that the services of the department are not required.

Testing the Apparatus.

One stroke on the bells by the telegraphic alarm will simply indicate that the apparatus is in good order.

ENGLISH SERFS.

THE NUMBER AND CONDITION OF FARM LABORERS IN ENGLAND.—A GREAT AND DISASTROUS STRIKE.—EMIGRATION THEIR ONLY HOPE.

There are 5,000,000 or 6,000,000 of sodden human beings in England and Scotland who are serfs and almost slaves. The agricultural laborers have no rights which the rest of the community feel obliged to respect. Practically bound to the soil, reared in the grossest ignorance, underpaid, almost starved, they are the most unfortunate, unhappy, uncivilized set of people in Christendom. Their career begins in a hovel, and ends in a poorhouse. Ten years ago, the agricultural laborers of England answered La Bruyere's description of the peasantry of France, when Louis XIV. was king. Thanks to the land laws born of the revolution of '89 the French peasants have become the richest "poor class" in Europe. They took a great part of the last loan negotiated by their government to pay off the German "smart money." A loan offered on the same terms in England would not have secured a subscription of a shilling from the whole mass of agricultural laborers, simply because they have not a shilling to give. One of this class who has been able to save a guinea is a phenomenon, pointed out by his comrades as a miracle of luck and wealth. Ten years ago these serfs were at the lowest point of civilization. They have since made some slight advances. The national free schools brought into being by the Gladstone government have taught many of the rising generation to read and write, and to do what they call "casting accounts," and even begin, in a vague, stumbling way, to think. Disinterested philanthropists like Canon Girdlestone have bestirred themselves to induce these human cattle to emigrate from the south of England, where wages are at the starvation point, to the north, where they are a few pence above it. Finally—and this is a sign of progress—the abused dumb masses begin to do something for themselves. Owing largely to the efforts of Joseph Arch, a laborer who got a little education and became a Methodist exhorter, a trade union was formed, which soon contained a majority of the English laborers. Then a strike was resolved upon. About 50,000 men struck for an advance of 2s—half a dollar—in their weekly wages, which were then from 9s to 14s, that is $.125 to $3.40 per week. This effort ended in disaster. The funds of the union were too small to support the strikers long; the great artisan unions soon withdrew their aid, led to do so by artful hints that the success of the strike would make meat and vegetables higher; and individual subscriptions were too few and small to amount to much. The laborers, thus left to their own resources, had to fight both the landlords and the tenant farmers. The former, with some few exceptions, sided with their tenants. Some of them made abatements in the rent, and others tore down, or threatened to tear down the laborers' cottages. The farmers themselves turned some of their fields into grass and worked the others by hiring villagers, idlers from the city, etc., and by doing extra work themselves. It was a long hard struggle, but the men, after holding out five or six months, finally gave in. They went back to their sorry tasks at the poor old wages. After all, they were used to disappointments and the issue was probably not unexpected, after the first few weeks of the strike. Efforts to get the ballot have utterly failed. Efforts to obtain a really good education, and wages which would enable human beings to live with something of the comfort enjoyed by the average pig, have also failed. The result of the whole struggle has been an awakening of the hopes of the men, and the giving of a strong impetus to emigration. Arch has already been in this country to spy out the land, but he confined himself mainly to Canada, and failed to discover a Canaan in it. Some thousand of laborers have emigrated to Australia and New Zealand, allured by free passages and the hope of greater comfort. The Mississippi valley, and especially Kansas, now seems to be the objective point. The federal union of agricultural laborers has appointed Messrs. Odger and Wicks to visit it and study its capabilities. Odger is a Radical leader who surpasses Bradlaugh in sound sense, although he lacks the latter's magnetic eloquence. If the report of these commissioners is favorable, the emigration fund of the union, which grows larger each week, will be used to aid ship loads of England farm laborers to reach the cheap lands of the West. These hardworking people will speedily thrive and prosper on the rich prairies of Kansas, where their children will get a rudimentary education, and in time a freehold, and become excellent citizens of the great republic.—[Chicago Tribune.

A ROTHSCHILD PALACE.—Baron Rothschild's residence and estate at Mentmore is described as one of the finest and most extensive in England. It contains some 20,000 acres of the finest land in Buckinghamshire. It has gardens, greenhouses, and graperies which are so arranged as to furnish fruit every month in the year. Oranges, pine-apples, figs, bananas, and other tropical fruits are grown in abundance. When the baroness is absent, yachting in the channel, or at her London House, orders by telegram are sent to Mentmore daily for the supplies required. The vases in the fountain and Italian gardens cost each £1000. The statuary is all of the most costly kind, executed by the first masters. The great hall which is about twenty by thirty feet, is filled with vases and statuary. Its contents must represent a value of not less than £800,000. It takes not less than three hours to pass through the rooms. The finish is exquisite, and the furnishing of each sumptuous. Some idea may be formed of the whole from the furniture of a single bedroom, one of the many guest chambers, costing £25,000 or £30,000. In the dining room and baronial hall are furnishings exceeding £200,000 each. Costly cabinets of the time of Louis XIV., of ebony inlaid with ivory or gold, diamonds, rubies and all other sorts of precious stones, walls hung with the costliest tapestry of the time of Louis XIV., or covered with the richest needle embroidered satin, may give some idea of the wealth lavished on this more than princely mansion. The costliest paintings adorn the walls, and the most skillful and expensive workmanship is displayed upon the ceilings. The idea of the baron seems to have been to build and furnish a mansion such as no other person in England, except perhaps the duke of Westminster, could hope to rival. The stud is said to contain more high bread horses than any in the world. It embraces thirty five hunters and as many racers, none of which are less in value than £600, while many of them run up to the thousand.

CHARLES MASON, Commissioner of Patents.

"I have no hesitation in assuring inventors that they cannot employ a man more competent and trustworthy and more capable of putting their applications in a form to secure for them an early and favorable consideration at the Patent Office." EDMUND BURKE, Late Commissioner of Patents.

"MR. R. H. EDDY has made for me over THIRTY applications for Patents, having been successful in almost every case. Such unmistakeable proof of great talent and ability on his part, leads me to recommend ALL inventors to apply to him to procure their Patents, as they may be sure of having the most faithful attention bestowed on their cases, and at very reasonable charges."
